1. Background and Objectives

- During the ASEAN+3 Summit Meetings in November 1999 in the Philippines and in November 2000 in Singapore, three countries including Republic of Korea, Japan and China recognized the importance of close economic cooperation in the region and have decided to promote active exchanges in the field of trade, investment and industrial technology.
  - Thus, the three Pan-Yellow Sea Rim countries established a regular channel of cooperation in an effort to expand economic exchanges including trade, investment and industrial technology and to create a solid foundation of free trade in North East Asian region.
- History
  - A total of 17 rounds of forums were held with the 1st conference in March 2001 in Fukuoka, Japan and the 17th conference held in Jeollabuk Province, ROK.
  - A total of 6,092 people have participated in the conferences with 1,710 from ROK, 2,105 from China, 2,271 from Japan and 6 from TCS.
  - Activities held so far include business forums between industries and academia, forums on cooperation between special industrial zones, forums on food and tourism, forums between university deans, forums on logistics, general assemblies, exhibitions, visits to industrial facilities, and etc.
